What is Recovers

The Recovers.org is a free platform provided by Supporting Resilient Communities, Inc, a 501c3 nonprofit, that provides a quick and easy way for non profit organizations to coordinate an influx of unmet needs and spontaneous donations and volunteers.

The platform can be used for:

- Volunteer Management
- Donation Databasing
- Information Hub
- Case Management

What is the purpose of Recovers

Recovers is a tool that can help coordinate spontaneous volunteers and donations, along with identifying unmet needs, particularly during emergencies. This platform provides an online tool for coordinating amongst organizations, individuals impacted by crisis, and individuals looking to support, without creating impediments to efficient relief operations, such as having individuals spontaneously show up to volunteer where they are not needed or unneeded supplies bombarding nonprofit organizations. In short, the platform provides an organized and quick way to connect needs to resources, through nonprofit organizations.

Who manages Santa Clara County Recovers

The Recovers platform was created and is maintained by the Recovers founders and staff. This team is responsible for vetting new nonprofits and supporting any technical difficulties that may arise with the platform. You can connect with them by emailing: support@recovers.org

CADRE, Santa Clara County's VOAD, worked with the Recovers founders to develop the Santa Clara County Recovers webpage and is responsible for conducting outreach to ensure non profit organizations and the communities within the County learn about the platform. CADRE staff routinely monitor the platform for new entries and assist with addressing and managing new needs, donations, and resources. However, CADRE is not the manager for the platform, rather the platform is intended to be monitored and managed by nonprofits within the community equally.

Nonprofit organizations who sign up for the platform should also routinely check the webpage, particularly during emergencies, to address community needs and help direct volunteer and donation offers to organizations and individuals who may need them.

If your organization is new to Recovers, click the grey button titled “Register a new organization”. The top of the page highlights the rules for signing up as an organization, including:

1. No selling. This platform is designed to move FREE goods and services to people who need them as confidentially, quickly and efficiently as possible. No companies of any kind are allowed to access the administrative backend (e.g., the databases, mass emailing). Goods and services offered to residents in need will be free. On a case-by-case basis, discounts from local businesses might be shared if not otherwise available for free, at the discretion of a local volunteer community organizer, without possibility of compensation to that organizer.
2. No exclusion or discrimination. All organizations that sign up to use the platform must not discriminate against anyone regardless of their race, sex, gender, gender identity and expression, religion, ethnicity, national origin, disability, age, health or immigration status. This collaborative platform is intended to allow different organizations to bring their expertise and strengths (i.e. organizations that only distribute eyeglasses can join our platform and only serve those who need eyeglasses. Childcare centers can serve children only.) However, an organization of faith can't only serve members of faith A, or refuse to serve members of faith B, etc. Use common sense and compassion!
3. No bosses. This platform is horizontal with very few exceptions. All vetted community organizations are equal to all others in data and feature access. Organization C cannot stop Organization D from participating, and cannot delete D's posts to the front page. This prevents organizations from bottlenecking progress.
4. No spam. Our site allows organizers to email everyone who signed up in a community at one time with one button. That's powerful! Don't abuse it. Best practice is to send, at most, a once-daily email out to all [volunteers; or donors; or requesters] with a digest of helpful information for the day, including links and references to active local organizations. Exceptions to this guideline should be employed under urgent circumstances only. In order to send out an effective daily digest, an organizer can email all other organizers (only) and ask for what to include in the day's email.

To sign up a new organization, organizations must provide a description of the services they provide to the community and how they plan to utilize the platform, their organization's website, area of operations, and donation webpage (if any). The registration form also asks for the name, email, username, and password for the individual staff/volunteer who is signing up on behalf of the organization.

Other staff/volunteers who want to sign up once the organization is approved, can be added by the first individual who signs up for the organization or by clicking the organization's name on the registration page and following the instructions for that section (listed on the page above).

If you click on the blue “New Message” button a form appears on the right side of the page. You can choose to send a message to all users, just the organizations, just the users who submitted needs, made offers and/or offered to volunteer.

Those users who have unsubscribed will not receive your message but a notification will still appear on their dashboard.

Note: Please check the sent broadcast messages to ensure you are not duplicating any information. Use this feature sparingly as too many emails may cause users to unsubscribe.

Provide a subject and any message you would like, add any attachments, and press the blue “Send Message” button at the bottom to send the message.

The screenshot shows a form for sending a message. The 'Send To*' section has five radio button options: 'Everyone', 'All Organizations', 'Users who Submitted Needs', 'Users who Submitted Offers/Donations', and 'Users who Offered to Volunteer'. A yellow highlighted note below these options reads: 'Please check the sent broadcast messages to minimize duplications.' The 'Subject*' field is empty. The 'Message' field has a rich text editor toolbar with icons for bold, italic, strikethrough, underline, list, and link. Below the message field is an 'Add Attachment' section with a 'Choose File' button and the text 'No file chosen'.
